Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

Labor Day, and the attached week end, cost the country over 600 lives. Quite a price to pay for a national holiday, but one to which the country has become calloused. If that many Americans died in a battle in which his country was engaged, it would make some major headlines. Holiday holocausts nowadays are regarded more as statistics than as news items. Occasionally some noteworthy persons departs this life via a traffic crash and his name makes the headlines, not the accident.

Labor Day to any thoughtful person has much significance. Organized labor which secured the holiday by putting pressure on congressmen, has appropriated the day. Some hundred or more members of AFL unions marched in the Grass Valley parade on Monday. We would have been glad to see the Mine Workers Protective League turn out to the last man and march through the streets of the towns in this county that they have helped to build. We don't know why they did not march, but we do believe it was a missed opportunity, which like a missed hole, sometimes results in misfortune.

But though organized labor has appropriated Labor Day, it really belongs to all of us who work, who perform a service or lead lives useful to the community, state or nation. In fact it is every American's day unless we except a few such lillies of the field as Tommy Manville and assorted wasters and rotters who manage to subsist without performing any service for their fellow men. Possibly even these lost souls have a function in a democracy. They serve as targets for millions of fingers pointed in scorn. What would all virtuous hardworking people do without such targets?

We believe organized labor, pursuing its present course, is riding to a fall. Perhaps three falls. The first fall is their infringement on the rights of other workers. Under the closed shop system, for instance, a "free" American citizen who does not wish to join a union is given the choice of joining or starving. Not only that but the employer must be the collection agency for union dues and see to it that all employes do join a union.

The next fall toward which organized labor is riding is its infringement of the rights of the great American public. Innocent persons with no interest in a labor dispute are damaged, often outrageously, by secondary picketing in labor disputes. One employer whose relations with his employees measured by organized labor's own standards, are excellent, may have his business closed down by a secondary boycott. He, his customers, and his employes are all hurt, because some other employer has failed, rightly or wrongly, to reach an agreement with his union employes. No sophistry, no birdwitted reasoning can condone this offense against democratic principles.

The third fall for which organized labor is heading is its Hitleresque breaking of its contracts. Time and again in San Francisco, a spot which happens to be under such labor domination that capital has been steadily deserting the city and along with capital, population, labor unions have broken their contracts with employers. Responsible labor leaders have tried in vain to inculcate some vestage of responsibility among the racketeers who practice abrogation, but thus far few labor contracts in San Francisco are worth the ink in labor signatures.

These are some of the reflections that highlight Labor Day. We do believe in organized labor, but we do insist that these groups of workers must in due course of time, assume the same responsibilities that other groups of citizens are compelled under the law to assume. The bond given by the negotiating committee of a labor union, must be binding upon the membership both morally and legally. Organized labor must be restrained from injury to innocent third parties. And finally if America is to remain free, citizens must freely choose whether they join a union or not. Coercion or force exercised upon workers, compulsion exercised upon employers to recruit labor unions, must cease. A union which fails to maintain its membership through its record of helpfulness to members in securing steady work at reasonable wages, and healthful working conditions, has no right to existence.

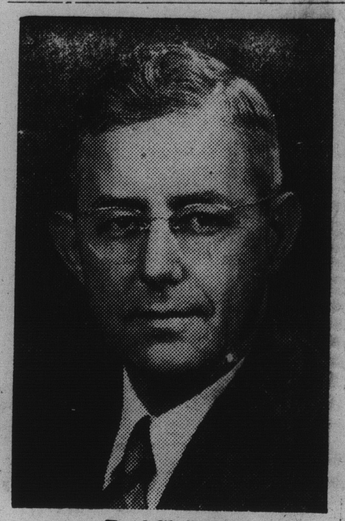
District President



Paul Claiborne

Paul Claiborne of Auburn, Rotary district president, spoke at the Rotary Club meeting in the National Hotel here today.

GOVERNOR OF ROTARY VISITS NEV. CITY CLUB

Paul W. Claiborne, governor of Rotary District No. 105, was the speaker at today's Rotary luncheon in the National Hotel. Richard Gregory, president of the high school student body was made a member of Rotary during his tenure of high school office. Guerdon Ellis gave a short welcoming address to this youngest member of Rotary.

Governor Claiborne warned the club against outside speakers who in these troubled times may have an ax to grind in behalf of some foreign government. He stated that one well authenticated case of this kind was that of a correspondent for a well known newspaper. As correspondent he obtained many engagements to speak before service clubs. Later it developed he was in the pay of the Japanese government.

Rotary International has requested Mr. Claiborne stated, that all Rotary clubs everywhere make a greater effort this year to acquaint the public, the communities in which they live, with their work, and their objectives.

He declared that every member of Rotary should glorify his calling, whether professional or business. All callings are necessary to the public service.

During the morning Governor Claiborne met with officers and directors of the club, and the chairman of the general committees in the National Hotel.

The deer were taken to the Nevada County Hospital, where the meat is served the inmates.

NEVADA COUNTY FLOWERS SHOWN AT FAIR PRAISED

Yesterday was Dahlia Day at the State Fair and Nevada County's exhibits of dahlias from the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. U. S. N. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoge, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crampton, would have won first prize but for the fact that all the dahlias exhibited were not named.

The Nevada county booth won a chorus of ahs! and ohs! as hundreds thronged to see the floral display arranged by the Nevada City Garden Club under the energetic supervision of Mrs. Paul Kemper. A large delegation of garden club members attended the fair and were guests of Calfiornia Garden Clubs Inc. at a charming tea yesterday afternoon, served in the Woman's club house.

Saturday is Marigold Day and Mrs. Kemper is arranging to make an impressive display of Nevada City marigolds. All those who have marigolds to display are requested to call either Mrs. Kemper of Mrs. Lageson this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

Sunday will be Aster Day. Those who have asters to spare are cordially urged to phone either of the two committewomen and some one will call for them Saturday. Nevada county may win one or both the prizes offered on those days.

He leaves his aged mother, Mrs. Sarah Nugent, three sisters, Mrs. Mary Van Doorn of Stockton, Mrs. Frank Meader of Sweetland, and Mrs. Margaret Valdez of Grass Valley and four brothers, James and Sylvester Nugent of Grass Valley and Raymond Nugent of Oakland and Joseph Nugent of Alameda.

Clyde Gwin Recovering From Long Illness

Clyde Gwin, assistant supervisor for the Tahoe National Forest, has taken out a year's leave of absence from the service, and is now a convalescent in the Veterans Hospital at Livermore. However, he is now slowly regaiing strength and with a year's leave, his legion of friends feel that eventually he will be able to resume his place in this community.

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

The September regular meeting of the city council will be held tonight at the City Hall, Mayor Ben Hall presiding. The council will pay August bills and will take up numerous matters pertaining to city business.

Cantonment Business Drive Gains Impetus With Naming Of Board Of Directors

Further momentum in Nevada County's drive for a share of the business expected to accrue from the proposed $25,000,000 army cantonment in Nevada and Yuba Counties was gained at a meeting in Grass Valley last night.

From San Francisco came information that officials of the 9th Zone Constructing Quartermasters office there said reports on surveys under way near Marysville for the new cantonment should be completed within two months.

The reports then will be forwarded to the War Department in Washington, D. C., where a final decision will be made on the selection of the site for the proposed camp. Two sites are under investigation in the Marysville area.

Lippencott and Bowen of Los Angeles, the firm of architect-engineers retained by the army to make the surveys and develop plans for the cantonment have until November 11 to have the reports in the hands of the war department officials.

The authorities in San Francisco would not venture a guess on when the war department may commence construction in the event one of the Marysville sites is chosen.

The engineers have been instructed to gage their plans for a camp housing around 40,000 men and to cost, with the necessary public utilities, about $25,000,000.

The California cantonment, whether at Marysville or elsewhere in the state, would be one of three triangular division camps proposed for the 9th Corps Area. Others would be at West Yellowstone and in Oregon, probably near Corvallis.

As proposed, the California camp would be partially or wholly for motorized units and when brought up ta its ful strength would be second in size only to Fort Lewis among the army cantonments on the coast.

The Nevada City and Grass Valley members of a board of directors to handle the drive for business were announced at the meeting.

The decision was reached to meet at Truckee, probably Monday night, with three members of the committee from that community. The Nevada City directors are H. E. Kjorlie, Robert Paine, and Lambert Thomas. The Grass Valley members are Ray Pengelly, Stuart Chalmers and Alvon T. Jones.

The board is to be composed of three members from each of the three towns, another member selected at large and a chairman, who will be named by the board.

There was considerable discussion at last night's meeting but no definite action was taken. A program will probably be outlined at the Truckee meeting Monday night.

CANTONMENT TO BE USED ONLY IF GREATER EMERGENCY ARISES

HARRY ENGLEBRIGHT GIVES INSIDE FACTS ON ARMY'S PLAN FOR RESERVATION IN THIS COUNTY.

Harry L. Englebright, Congressman from this, the second California district, arrived at his home here late Tuesday night with Mrs. Englebright. He will leave for Washington, D. C. on September 11 to be present in the national capitol when the House of Representatives resumes full sessions again on September 15. During his visit here a few days will be spent in Nevada City, as he must spend some time in San Francisco in consultation with state and federal officials.

Regarding the new cantonment for which surveys are now being made on the western border of Nevada County and eastern border of Yuba county, Congressman Englebright said:

"Until Congress adopts new plans for a larger army necessitating more cantonments and appropriates the money for them, there will be no establishment of soldiers there. The Quartermaster General is making surveys for fourteen new cantonments in different places throughout the United States. This is being done in event the emergency should call for a larger army than now contemplated. Captain Fish of the Quartermaster's department has employed a Los Angeles firm to make surveys and estimates and a tentative plan for the use of the cantonment area here. It is a part of the U. S. Army's long range planning, to be utilized only if the emergency makes it necessary.

"It cannot now be foreseen when Congress will be called upon for new appropriations to enlarge the army and make these cantonments necessary, but the army heads propose to be ready in case this contingency should arise. Complete plans down to the smallest detail are now being drafted.

"One thing I would like to say. If and when the Army does take over this acreage in Nevada and Yuba counties, you may rest assured that liberal values will be placed upon the land. Nobody is going to be deprived of their holdings without proper remuneration."

Asked about the cleavage in the Republican party members in Congress, Mr. Englebright said:

"Of course there's a cleavage among the Republicans. There is also a cleavage you will notice among Democrats. Congress is split down the middle, as you have no doubt observed, on such a matter as retaining the selectees for 18 months more in service. However, you will find that few Republicans vated against any appropriations for the defense. The rift is over the question of doing anything to get us into a shooting war. The country and Congress I believe is almost one hundred per cent in favor of a two ocean navy, of an air force better than any power can bring against us, and of an adequate army, mechanized and armed with every possible device. But on the question of becoming a full partner in the war with Great Britain, you will find the majority of the people, I think, and of Congress, are not now in any frame of mind to undertake it. Moreover a great many Congressmen are convinced that since this is a war in which production is paramount, we can be of more actual service in arming the forces fighting Hitlerism, than we can by undertaking an active role.

Regarding the much mooted shortage of oil in the New England area Mr. Englebright declared that we do not get the whole story out here. He said that while it may be true that the railroads have available 20,000 tank cars to haul oil from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas to eastern consumption points, it was a question whether the railroads loaded up with transportatio for other defense materials could spare the room on the tracks and the time it would take to get the tankers into service.

Mr. Englebright believes that the President will ask soon for about five billions more for the lease-lend program. Russia and China, he thinks, are to be given more effective aid if possible. At present the total amount already voted for defense purposes including the seven billions for lend-lease aid, is fifty two billions.

"PLEASE DON'T HURT MY LITTLE GIRL"

DEAR DRIVER:

Today my daughter, who is seven years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is "Scoot" sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved "gooybye" and started off to the halls of learning.

Last night we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her—the girl with the yellow curls—and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head—and about the trees in the school yard—and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things—tremendously vital, unimportant things; then we studied spelling, arithmetic, and reading, and then to bed.

She's upstairs now—sound asleep with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's her doll) cuddled in her right arm. You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut, or her head gets bumped I can fix it—but when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and darts about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't go with her all the time—I have to work to pay for her clothes and education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive carefully. please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and please remember that children do run from behind parked cars.

Please, don't hurt my little girl.

YOUR NEIGHBOR.

TAXES ARE EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

If the U. S. Senate approves the plan of its finance committee, half again as many Californians will write checks to the income tax collector on March 1st, as ever did before.

Exemptions on all incomes will be reduced from $2000 for married persons to $1500; and from $800 for single persons to $750. And that, say the treasury experts, will increase by about seven million the number of persons filing income tax returns with the federal government.

However, the new taxpayers will account for only about 49 million dollars of the expected 303 million dollars income tax. For there aren't enough citizens in the category to make much more than a splash in the bucket. Most of the huge amount will come from bigger taxpayers whose lowered exemptions will nick them for a few dollars more.

The new levy on incomes sounds enormous. But it will not go very far toward filling out the $3,539,700,000 requirement of the immense new tax bill, conceived to be necessary for defense. Sacrifices are going to be needed; corners will have to be cut. With that the average citizen has no quarrel in these times of emergency.

But the average citizen does want to know what corners the government itself proposes to cut and which of the many unnecessary governmental frills will be eliminated and when. The treasury reports it is still spending 52 millions a day, while collecting only 13 millions. The nation is now billons in the red.

If government is everybody's responsibility, then financing it in sound and economical fashion is everybody's business. Seven million new income taxpayers are going to be asking about that very shortly now. —Contributed.

RECIPE FOR LOW MORALE

Men in the Army are tired of reading the insistent statements of men out of it that Army morale is low.

It isn't, they reiterate. Only time hangs heavily on the hands of draftees new to the game of soldiering and there are spare hours they long to have filled.

A young fellow doesn't learn much lolling around evenings, gassing with the boys, standing on street corners watching the traffic, or lined up with the gang in beer parlors. He can't read seven nights a week, nor afford a movie nearly that often, unless he's luckier than most. Camp entertainments haven't got really steamed up to any regularity of program yet.

Out of that need is born a brand new, nationwide committee of big name sports writers, football coaches, college athletic directors, boxing commissioners and other gentlemen of the sports world. It is organized for the express purpose of formulating and directing a regular sports program for the boys of our armed forces. The eyes of a million or so lonely kids are focused on it today — the brightest spot on their horizon.

With the cooperation and support of the Army and Navy Departments, the committee plans to arrange camp appearances for sports idols, to exhibit movies of important fights in the ring and of the conference football games this fall, and probably to establish a regular sports broadcast for young America in the Army camps.

Possibly no activity that could be devised would better suit or better entertain the boys. It's the kind of program, clean and fine and vastly absorbing, that every citizen, whether he has a boy in camp or not, wishes he could help toward success.—Contributed.

SPENDING OURSELVES RICH!

If it isn't one thing it is another. A short time ago we were suffering acutely in this country from lack of business, low wages, long relief rolls and glutted markets. Now, just when we've accustomed ourselves to thinner soup, less spending money and all the government's alphabetical commissions for feeding and clothing the needy, the whole cock-eyed picture is reversed and Washington has started worrying about inflation. The difficulty now, it seems, is good business, high wages—and a threatened shortage of places to spend our money.

To the ordinary, run-of-the-mill citizen (and we fit in that category), inflation is a fearsome thing, because nobody understands it much, including those who talk about it most. But anybody who recalls the first World War boom-bust cycle knows, at least, that it's a very unhealthy condition. It goes something like this: Suddenly, there's an increase in the money people have to spend—and a corresponding decrease in the things people can buy. Prices go up a bit; they shoot up; they hit the ceiling. Then the roof caves in and there's another depression.

We all need to remember, during the current "boom," that it has been bought with our money and our credit. In an armament race with Hitler and his Axis partners, we are using up our capital, drawing on our reserves and anticipating our future earnings. For a time, we are SPENDING OURSELVES RICH. But there's an end to that, of course, when the bill comes in!

Our cure for inflation isn't as complicated as that contemplated in Washington, which is worrying about putting a ceiling on prices, a curb on installment buying and a tax on wage increases. Our solution would be simply to squeeze the water out of the stock by levying a monthly tax—perhaps a blanket sales tax, or gross income tax—equal to our monthly spending. That would take about 50 per cent of our paychecks and we would then be free to spend the rest in riotous living. —Contributed.

LABOR'S HANGOVER

The working men and women of America had ample reason to celebrate Labor Day. But they also have good cause to be apprehensive.

Never before has the immediate present looked so rosy to laboring men and laboring men's organizations. And yet most of them have the feeling that from now on their situation is going to get a whole lot worse before it gets any better.

So labor—organized and unorganized—had better make the most of the celebrating. For this year is tops for labor. Labor's star had not risen so high last year; it very likely will not be so high next year, or for many years to come.

Don't get the idea, however, that we have visions of seeing the whole movement step over a precipice tomorrow and nose dive to its doom.

All we see is a present situation that is made to order for the little guy who has been kicked around pretty badly in the last couple of decades—and a future outlook for him, that resembles a gradually closing pincers.

Let's look at where labor is and where it's come from.

Wages and employment today are literally skyrocketing every man with a skill—particularly if the skill is in handling metals or machinery—can have a choice of jobs, and he can almost name his own price. In short, the labor market, riddled with shortages instead of manpower surpluses, is definitely a seller's market.

Jobs are more plentiful now than at any time since the World War; and when jobs are plentiful, wages have to be good.

Labor organization, furthermore, is at a peak never before attained. And labor's position under the law certainly is better than it ever was before, with the result that the laboring man now is the one who can brandish a legal club over the employer who once used this weapon on him.

Yes, labor has come a long way from the era of the 14-hour day.

First of all, employment is just about at capacity today, and it probably will get little if any better. And the next few months also will bring a brand new phenomenon known as "priorities unemployment"—men will be thrown out of jobs because the plants they are working in will not be deemed essential to defense and therefore will be deprived of important raw materials.

Secondly, labor will begin to be squeezed by inflation, regardless of what congress does about price controls. So far, wages and total payrolls in many industries have gone up faster than prices, so labor's weekly paycheck still will buy more things than it has in more than ten years. From now on, however, prices are almost sure to step out in front of the inflationary parade.

Taxes, too, will begin to make laboring men squeal, just like they have made capitalists squeal for these last few years. A talk in congress is now of lower income tax exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married couples, and raising starting rates to around 11 per cent. That means that a $200-a-month married laborer who paid little or nothing this year may pay around $100 next year. And by next year, congress very likely will be talking about a national sales tax to go on top of all the others; and bigger deductions from payrolls for the social security fund.

Labor's unusually strong bargaining position also is due to decline in these next years. The so-called "social gains" that have been pushed through in the earlier years of the New Deal already are having to take a back seat as the nation concentrates on production for war. And some of the more vicious weapons that organized labor has used also are being taken away, as the pendulum of public opinion swings away from a movement that went to extreme.

Actually, the brigtest spot in labor's outlook for the future is the prospect that however tough going becomes, the whole country will be in the same fix. Labor, that is, can face the future in the knowledge that it will not be cruelly exploited, but that any sacrifice it makes will be part of a common effort.

And so labor not only had a lot to celebrate, but the comforting knowledge that when the hangover comes, the whole country will be clamoring for the same ice pack.—Sacramento Union.

PENNSYLVANIA MINE WORK DISCONTINUED

The Empire Star Mines Company of Grass Valley announced this week its intention of abandoning operations in the old Pennsylvania and Dannenborg mines in Browns Valley.

Ellsworth Bennett, superitendent, said work ceases as of September 1st, in the Pennsylvania but will be continued in the Danneborg for a few months while newly discovered leads are worked out.

The mines were reopened three years ago by the Grass Valley company and a systematic mining operation was put in force. Expert mining talent was secured and new veins were worked.

The mines ran their shafts under the property of Worthington Ames and a lawsuit which was decided in favor of the company was to the effect that the mining company could recover the gold underneath the Ames property

Bennett said it will take some time to strip the mine of the tracks and pipes, and as soon as they are removed from underground the mines will be allowed to fill with water.

NEW LAWS CURB AND LIBERATE

By CLEM WHITAKER

When enactments of the 1941 State Legislature become effecttive a few days hence—on Sept. 13, to be exact—you can cut loose if you like, and drive 55 miles an hour on any state highway without fear of the traffic cop trailing along behind you.

You can tell your wife you don't like spinach—and drink your vitamins along with your milk, providing your dairyman takes advantage of the new vitamin-milk law.

And if it is absolutely essential that you work a seven day week, you can do it without fear of being jailed because you milked the cow on Sunday.

There are other things you can't do, however—many of them! For example, if you have a good income, and your parents need assistance, you can't just pass your responsibility along to the state and expect it to take care of them with an old age pension. One of the new laws provides that adult children must contribute to the support of their parents if they are able, and if such aid is necessary.

If you haven't got a job, you can't go on SRA either, because the legislature decided, there's plenty of work for everyone able to work—and cut out all appropriations for the Relief Administration.

And if you've taken an oath to obey the orders of any foreign government or official don't try to get a job on any public payroll. You're just not eligible.

All in all, 1238 new laws will be written into the California statute books on September 13, many of them technical in nature, but some of far reaching importance. No new state taxes will be imposed as the legislature killed off all such proposals. On the other hand, several hoped for tax reductions will not take place as Governor Olson put the skids under the tax saving bills.

Under a sweeping measure enacted as part of the national defense program, severe penalties are provided for sabotage or attempted sabotage in defense industries and the act allows the closing off of property, streets and highways where necessary to the protection of such industries. Another defense measure empowers the governor to organize and maintain a state guard of not less than 10,000 persons replace the National Guard which has been called into active service.

Los Angeles County, under the new reapportionment law, will get two new assembly districts, while San Francisco and Alameda counties will each lose one. Of three new congressional districts created, due to the state's growth in population, two will go to Southern California, and the third to the southern central coast area.

BANK OF AMER. FIGURES SHOW CITY'S UPTREND

More than $330,000 in new money was put to work by the Bank of America in Nevada City in the twelve months ended June 30.

This fact was made known to the Nugget this week by H. A. Curnow, manager of the bank here, who pointed to it as evidence of the economic soundness of Nevada City as a business center.

A cross section of the figures reveals the wide variety of activities stimulated by this large flow of vitalizing finance.

For real estate projects, home building, and the modernization of existing buildings, there were 59 loans aggregating $91,662, all adding permanent wealth to the community.

For the operations of business, industry and agriculture there were 479 new loans totalling $135,579.

To finance the local purchase of automobiles under the bank's Time-plan instalment service there were 48 loans for a total of $25,478.

For the instalment purchase of home appliances and other equipment there were 14 new loans aggregating $3031.

To meet a wide variety of individual needs there were 364 personal loans totalling $80,600.

"These were all in addition to the large volume of loans already made and still at work in the community," Mr. Curnow stated. "But these seemingly cold statistics tell a story of maintained employment, stimulated trade and genuine progress for the community and its citizens.

"Naturally," the banker continued, "we are happy to have had such an important role in serving the needs of Nevada City and district, and look forward to still greater opportunities for service in the future. Incidentally, concrete evidence of the growth of local prosperity is further offered in the fact that on June 30 this year the deposits at Bank of America here were well over $30,000 higher than on the same date last year."

GEMS OF THOUGHT

LABOR: ITS REWARD

There never was a person who did anything worth doing that did not receive more than he gave.—Henry Ward Beecher.

The man who does not work for the love of work but only for money is not likely to make money nor to find much fun in life.—Charles M. Schwab.

I look on that man as happy, who, when there is question of success, looks into his work for a reply—Emerson.

The right thinker and worker does his best, and does the thinking for the ages. He improves moments; to him time is money, and he hoards this capital to distribute gain.—Mary Baker Eddy.

God has so made the mind of man that a peculiar deliciousness resides in the fruits of personal industry.—Wilberforce.

The hope, and not the fact, of advancement, is the spur to industry. —Sir Henry Taylor.

Don Ameche In "Moon Over Miami" To Open Here Sunday

In three weeks time, 31 moonlight nights—everything from a full moon to a thin crescent—were manufactured by the moonlight man of the movies for 20th Century Fox. He's Dave Anderson, and his job was to get just the right gradation of light for Betty Grable and Don Ameche—as well as Carole Landis and Robert Cummings—to stroll in for their latest picture. 'Moon Over Miami," which is slated to open Sunday at the Nevada Theatre.

The thirty one varieties Anderson created all had a definite purpose.

"A good many of the romantic scenes in the picture are at night and naturally where there is romance there must be moonlight," commented Dave. "A full moon is a cinch to create. A full, sofe white light streaming through the trees is as convincing as the real article. We ran into trouble, though, when we started on the smaller slices of the moon.

"We have a moon library to help us with these. In the library are film shots of the actual moon and moonlight in about 200 different settings, and we are able to compare our moons on the set with the real moonlight as we have it on celluloid.

"Geography the time of night, the season and the kind of weather have got to be taken into account," he concluded, "but at that, manufacturing moonlight is a lot of fun."

DISPOSSESSION SAD STORY FOR INDIANS, IRISH

A few days ago Chief Stanley Housel came to Nevada City and during the course of his day's business for his Indian subjects in the Tyler section arrived at the Court House.

While walking through the corridors of the county building he chanced upon Jay and Dinnie Coughlan, two of his former paleface neighbors on the "ridge.' After a short reunion and discussion of the prospects of deer hunting and other topics common to the friends, Stanley learned of the difficulties besetting the paths of his friends who a few years ago partially severed their loyalty to Columbia Hill and neighboring knolls by buying a ranch in the flatlands of lower Nevada County.

It seems that the Coughlan brothers were lamenting their threatened eviction from their orange grove and cattle ranch near Smartsville by reason of the government casting a covetous eye on the land for an army cantonment. Stanley sympathized for a while with the Coughlans and then chuckled heartily. "What's the joke" inquired one of the despondent ones. "Ha, Ha", rumbled Stanley, "first the Irish come into this fine land and take it away from us Indian people; now the soldiers come in and take it away from the Irish, Ha, Ha, Ha. Goodbye, Irishers."

RETURN FROM VACATION

Frank and Grace Duffy, proprietors of The Success Cafe here, last night returned from a vacation which took them through many states. The Duffys visited relatives in Pennsylvania.
